A Visit to Dominion Experimental Station

A writer in the Nor-West Farmer has the following to say regarding the work being done at the Experimental Station here:

It was the writer's privilege to spend a day at the experimental station, Lacombe, Alta., a few weeks ago. The first week in April is not the best time of year to determine what is being done in the fields, but there is plenty to be seen about the farm, buildings at Lacombe. Favorable impressions always follow those who visit this farm. It is a place where the superintendent is "doing things." No better man could have been secured for the position than G. H. Hutton, B. S.A. He has a thorough knowledge of all departments of the farm, and where one man has as many branches to oversee it is no easy task.

Speaking in broad terms, the field experiment work is largely the same on all the experimental farms and has been frequently reviewed. At some future time we hope to deal with the field work as conducted at Lacombe, but in this article we shall confine ourselves mainly to the live stock work, which is a new addition to the Lacombe farm.

Realizing the importance of live stock to agricultural pursuits in central and northern Alberta, Mr. Hutton last year introduced an extensive program of live stock work to be conducted along practical lines. With the addition of 160 acres to the original farm, making a total of 500 acres, the widening of the scope of work was made possible. Suitable buildings were erected. Breeding stock was secured and the splendid strings of young stuff coming along show that the foundation laid for the future of the cattle department consisted of sufficient grades to bring the number up to 100.

The dairy barn is a model of perfection. It has no loft, but on account of adjoining the central barn, feed is quite near at hand. Few barns offer the same advantages for cleanliness. The walls are almost all window, giving an abundance of light. The floor pipes for ventilation are located at the front behind the cows, and the hot air passes through the ventilators at the rear. The stable is arranged for two rows of cows, facing each other, with a feed passage between. A 6-foot passage is left between the cows, the gutter is 18 inches wide, 8 inches deep. The cows and 6 inches deep in the back. The stalls range in length from the stanchion to the gutter from 4 feet 6 inches to 5 feet, but as each cow's head is in front of the stanchion, this length is not a factor. Each cow is given a stall to stand on. The manger is also built of concrete, 22 inches wide, the front of the manger left made by the raised feed passage in front of the cows. This passage is 6 feet wide. Each cow is given 3 1/2 feet in width of stall.

Some very creditable records are being made by the Holstein cows in this herd. Rhoda De Kol, a fashionably bred 2-year-old calved last August at 2 years and 5 months old. From August 7 to the end of March she gave 7322 pounds of milk with an average test of 3.5, thereby qualifying in the R.O.P. Another 2-year-old, Daisy Johanna Ormsby, freshened in September at 2 years and 14 days. To the end of March she gave 5586 lbs. milk, testing 3.5. A 4-year-old, I. A. Rosa, Echo, gave 11,143.2 pounds of milk in 365 days, testing 3.6, a 3-year-old.

The splendid type of Jersey cow, Brampton Wolsley Thelma, gave 1751 pounds of milk from Jan. 22 to March 31, with an average butterfat test of 5 per cent. Several of the grade Holstein heifers have given 100 lbs. of milk per month.

A splendidly equipped livery dairy has been erected. Suitable facilities are provided for separating, cooling, testing, weighing and canning for milk and cream. A storage of ice has also been made in an adjoining building.

A point of general interest to farmers is that of feeds used in producing records in this country. At Lacombe the old reliable green cut shovels are cut and fed three times a day. On this cut feed is given a mixture of bran, barley and oats in the proportion of two-fifths bran, two-fifths oats and one-fifth barley. Some experiments have been started in the comparative feeding of roughage and grain with and without roots, and also in feeding green cut shovels cut and uncut. These tests have not been conducted for sufficient length of time to produce any conclusive results.

Several grade cows, representing almost every strain of breeding are being crossed with a pure bred Holstein bull, with the object of determining the value of a full blood sire on a grade herd.

Alberden Angus is the breed of beef cattle chosen at Lacombe. The herd is headed by Elm Park Ringleader, a very compact, smooth individual, that is leaving a splendid string of young stuff to his credit.

Each year a number of beef steers are fed for experimental purposes. The cattle fed this past winter were disposed of early in the spring and the results of the experiment were published in the Nor-West Farmer of March 20.

The poultry department is still in its initial stages, as this is the first season that the whole plant will be in operation. Nine colony houses have been built with yards attached. Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Buff Orpingtons are the breeds kept. Each breed is kept in a separate yard and three pens of each breed were mated up at the time the writer visited the farm. Several incubators of different types were in operation, and some hatches got in good condition.

The colony houses were each 8 by 6 feet, and made of one thickness of tongued and grooved siding. Some few were lined. The cotton front was used. Each house was used to accommodate 10 birds under ordinary conditions, but for the mating season only 12 birds were housed in each.

The work covered in this article is not long under way at Lacombe. It is being undertaken in a practical, systematic way, and it is only a question of a short time before some valuable data on live stock breeding and feeding will be available to the public.

RAILWAY PROMOTER DENOUNCED BY ONTARIO RAILWAY BOARD

Toronto, Ont., May 13.—In terms of scathing denunciation of John W. Moyes, the Ontario railway and municipal board yesterday afternoon handed out the findings of the investigation into the affairs of the Ontario West Shore Railway, of which Moyes was promoter and president. The following is a summary of the charges.—That, John W. Moyes, by the false and fraudulent representations that $12,500 had been paid into the Dominion Bank, Toronto, on account of the Ontario West Shore Railway Company to be permanently organized.

"That no permanent capital was contributed to the undertaking beyond the proceeds of the sale of the bonds guaranteed by the applicants, although fifteen of the unguaranteed bonds of the value of $15,000 appear to have been taken by the Provincial Steel Company in part payment of rails.

"That John W. Moyes, in breach of the Ontario Railway Act, procured a colorable agreement for the construction of the railway to be entered into between railway company and the so-called Huron Construction Company, which latter was in fact John Moyes.

"That by procuring to be issued false and fraudulent progress certificates, John W. Moyes withdrew from the Toronto General Trusts Corporation the proceeds of the sale of the bonds guaranteed by the applicants, and by so doing he was guilty of embezzlement to the sum of $100,387.37, and Vaughan, an M. Roberts, the railway company's engineer, by his gross negligence and breach of duty, aided and abetted Moyes in his fraudulent design.

"That, owing to the fact that no books of accounts of the company were kept, and that many vouchers are missing, the board cannot report with exactness how much of the amount so fraudulently withdrawn by Moyes was properly expended. This much is clear, that while several thousands of dollars were applied to purposes foreign to the railway, the sum of $232,272.90 was properly expended in railway construction and materials.

"That the assets of the company consist of the right-of-way, which for the entire distance, except for the last 12 parcels, has been required, and construction work and material, all of which, according to the corrected valuation of Mr. Middleton, C.E., is worth $276,021.21.

"That all the liabilities of the company known to the board are the bonds guaranteed by the applicants of a par value of $100,000 and a parcel of unguaranteed bonds of the par value of $15,000, both of which are secured by mortgages on all the companies' undertakings, and besides there are outstanding unsecured accounts amounting to some $2,000."

Commenting on Mr. Moyes' evidence, Chairman McIntyre says: "A few excerpts from the notes of evidence will show the unsatisfactory character of Moyes' testimony, which throughout was characterized by shifty evasion, and, as subsequent developments proved, by bold, reiterated falsehoods."

BIG OIL STRIKE IS REPORTED AT DINGMAN WELL

Calgary, May 14.—Oil was struck in the Dingman well at five o'clock this afternoon in enormous quantities. The Western Associated Press correspondent telephoned in from the well at two o'clock this morning that there was one thousand feet of high-grade oil in the well at that time and it was rising rapidly with the prospects of it overflowing before morning.

The flow of oil was preceded by a heavy flow of gas. The oil body itself was broken into some time in the afternoon. The later was put down to the bottom of the well at 5 o'clock and was brought to the surface full of oil. It was then let down to within thirty feet of the bottom and was again brought to the surface full of oil. The same thing occurred when the baler was let down to within one hundred and fifty feet, and at various depths thereafter, each time being brought to the surface full of oil. The last time the baler was sent down to within one thousand feet of the well and the baler was again brought to the surface full of oil.

Altogether ten barrels of oil have been brought to the surface by means of the baler, and the ground surrounding the well is saturated with the fluid.

The strike of this high grade of oil is unprecedented in the history of oil discovery.

PONOKA FIRE.

Thursday morning, at about 1:45, the alarm of fire was given, and in a short time the fire brigade and citizens had gathered to find that the rear of the post office building was ablaze.

Willing hands went to work with a will, but at the critical moment the fire engine refused to work. The flames gained with great rapidity, and soon the store of F. E. Algar, Ltd., was in their grips. For a time it looked as if the whole business section would be destroyed. Water came at last in abundance and the situation was relieved.

How the fire originated is a complete mystery. Had it not been for the fact that the postmaster, who was in the office at 9:30, when everything was in order. Several parties passed by as late as 12:30 and saw no signs of fire, so that the conflagration must have sprung very hastily.

The loss is between $10,000 and $40,000, and is only partly covered by insurance.

For the manner the fire brigade worked, nothing but praise can be given. Had it not been for their activity the loss would have been enormous, and now such an outbreak was confined to so limited space is marvellous. For a time the outlook was so serious that a call was sent to Wetaskiwin for assistance.

FREE OF ALL THREE DISEASES

"Fruit-a-lives" Brought Him Perfect Health

"I am younger than I have been taking 'Fruit-a-lives'. I was troubled very badly with Piles, Constipation and Stomach Disorders, but I found 'Fruit-a-lives' was the panacea for the whole three.
Now I am free of all these diseases and enjoying perfect health, and able to work whenever I like. Five years ago, I started taking 'Fruit-a-lives'. I took two every night and they worked wonders for me.
No other medicine I could get was so good and I took lots of different remedies before I found out how good 'Fruit-a-lives' were.
I keep 'Fruit-a-lives' on hand all the time, and am never without them. I even take them with me when I go motoring, so I can have them handy. 'Fruit-a-lives' are worthy of every good word I can say about them. The fact that they cured me of Piles, was something to be everlastingly thankful for!"

ance, but soon thereafter this was countermanded.
We are not in a position to state when F. E. Algar, Ltd., will rebuild, but they are open business in the Sage Building, half a block north of the old stand. O. L. Webster has found office room in the Ponoka Land Office, while C. W. Segersson has his haven in the Patterson building, adjoining the bank.

LETHBRIDGE BY-LAW DECLARED INVALID

Lethbridge, May 16.—A decision of interest to the province generally and dealing with the validity of a city by-law enforcing payment of a fee of $100 on moving picture houses, was today rendered by Mr. Justice Beck, presiding at the supreme court civil sessions.

The case was a test one submitted by the city solicitor, when J. Wilson, manager of the Sherman theatre, had refused to pay the city license on the ground that he had already paid a provincial license. His lordship held that the theatres act passed by the provincial legislature in 1912 provided for the licensing of moving pictures and the subsequent order-in-council in November, 1913, of the payment of license placed the city by-law, passed according to the charter in September, 1913, in conflict with the provincial law. Therefore the by-law could not be lawfully enforced.

"VICTORIA" OR "EMPIRE" DAY, MAY 24.

This year the above named day occurs on a Sunday and will probably be observed in some measure in many of our churches. The popular holiday will be celebrated the day following. There is a peculiar appropriateness about the day this year. Discussions are heard on every hand concerning loyalty and royalty, home rule, Rome rule, and no rule at all (Mexico), to say nothing of the Americanisation of Canada, and the Canadianisation of all sorts and conditions of men. That the day should be known by two names is well, seeing those names are what they are. In the reign of no sovereign did the empire develop so rapidly as in that of Victoria, and in the person of no sovereign did the empire and a better head. It is not quite true to assert that Victoria was the first claimant to the title—except in times of India. In Anglo-Saxon times the title of "Emperor" was assumed by kings in England. An official declaration of parliament in 1532 stated that "this realm of England is an Empire." The title carries with it the idea of a supreme magistracy power.

Now this is the thing for which the various organs of the empire will rejoice on Empire Day, that one high ideal of justice and equity, of protection and liberty, vested in the last resort in the head of a family at the head of the empire. In no part will this celebration be more striking than in Western Canada. Granted that there is some truth in the statement that much of the west is American at heart, who would have it otherwise? They would be but poor representatives of a nation whose very hearts could change for a monetary or climatic consideration. Few men have more respect for British institutions than the American who comes to the west, and his children are fast becoming true as any in their allegiance to the empire and their head. The loyalty of the French Canadians should not be pitted against the love of the empire. The part of those who come from the States; it should rather be used as an illustration of the way in which British ideals win their way, and most men will grant that there is less race feeling to be overcome in the one case than there is in the other. One of the strongest instincts in human nature is love of the "homeland," and Canada's great need, her greatest need today, is to have her children shall be a useful place in the life and work of as fair a Dominion as there is in the fairest empire that ever was.

An Article on Liquor Question That's Well Worth Reading

Asa Mahan, L.L.D., president of two colleges and of one university, forcibly voices a great principle in the following sentence:

"Admissions in favor of truth from the ranks of its enemies constitute the highest kind of evidence."

The testimony of a presumably honest man as to his uprightness in a deal is worth something, but the testimony of his adversaries who admit his honesty is worth more.

Temperance advocates are generally agreed that the conviction that the prohibition of the liquor traffic—any, more, of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic, fermented, and malt liquors—is the only solution of the great problem of intemperance, the evils of which Gladstone declared to "exceed those of war, famine, and pestilence combined. Yet many good men who deplore the ruinous results of the liquor traffic believe that it may be modified and made tolerable, if not beneficial. Such are opposed on various grounds to prohibition.

Admissions from these opponents of prohibition regarding the potencies of evil in the liquor traffic "constitute the highest kind of evidence."

In the light of this principle, read the following editorial from the Sacramento Daily Bee of Jan. 8, 1914, presumably from the vigorous and facile pen of its able editor, Mr. Charles McClatchy. The Bee is opposed to prohibition, and so also is the editorial the Bee quotes from the National Liquor Dealers' Journal, but prohibitionists will enjoy reading this editorial, and the great undecided public ought to read it. It speaks great facts in its terrible arraignment. We present it in the light of it ought the liquor traffic longer to exist? Which is preferable—that or prohibition?—The editorial follows, applicable to other places as well as to California:

Some months ago the National Liquor Dealers' Journal contained a surprising editorial regarding recent prohibition victories, and declaring: "For this the liquor business is to blame. It seems incapable of earning any lesson of advancement, or any more."

"To perpetuate itself it has formed alliances with the slums that repel all conscientious and patriotic citizens. It deliberately upholds the most corrupt powers, and looks with its own resources the most unworthy men, the most corrupt and recreant officials. It does not aid the purification of municipal, state, or national administration.

"Why? Because it has to ask immunity for its own lawlessness. That this condition is inherently and inevitably necessary we do not believe, but it has come to be a fact, and the public which is to pass on the matter in its final analysis believes anything that anybody can tell it of the liquor business. Why? Let the leaders of the trade answer.

"There are billions of property involved, and an industry of great employing and tax-paying ability, but when the people decide that the truth is being told about the alcoholic liquor trade, the money value will not count, for conscience aroused puts the value of a man above all other things. The writer believes that prohibition is theoretically wrong, but he knows that theories, however well substantiated, may be overthrown by conditions, as has often been done in the world's history.

It were well for the liquor wine and liquor interests if they had more straight from the shoulder counselors like the National Liquor Dealers' Journal. In California, the people will vote next November upon the question of total prohibition. The lawyers, wineries, and liquor dealers of the State are gathering all their recruits and taxing all their resources to fight it. They would the wine of the dirty saloon, of contempt for law, of disregard for the home, and now they fear they will reap the whirlwind of disaster and bankruptcy.

The present crisis in California is of its own creation. They can blame its being and its strength on none other than themselves. They fashioned the Frankenstein which may pursue them to their undoing, and they led it until it grew into the monster from which they are affrighted. The liquor traffic in California is what they made it. The dirty dive is their panged child. The low saloon is their costly offspring. The road house that lures young boys to hell and invites young girls in to prostitution is the creature of their greed, their contempt for common decency, their arrogant disregard for the welfare and the rights of fathers and mothers, husbands and wives, sons and daughters; of their impulses and damnable insatiation of boyhood and girlhood upon the altar of the pocketbook.

These men are facing the raging tempest of their own creation. And how do they propose to meet it in its oncoming wrath? What weapons will they use to cope with the battalions of prohibition they have created, have fathered, have nourished into a swarming host, blind in its wrath and indiscriminate in its vengeance?

The evidence is apparent on every hand that they intend to follow old and played-out methods; that they will provide a great defense fund, with which to flood the State with literature and oratory; that their principle remains will be on the crestwhile potent almighty-dollar-a champion once erroneously credited with being able to accomplish anything. All that be their mainstay, their great hope, and prop, and device, they may as well keep their money. For they cannot save themselves that way. The only way for the wine, brewery, and liquor interests of California to do in this crisis is to right-about-face, and that immediately. They must at once give up the dirty dive, the low saloon and the dirty dive; from the assignment roadhouse; from arrogant and corrupt attempts at political domination—and they must give evidence that that divorce will be permanent.

They cannot stand before the bar of public opinion and crack the lash any more over the voters. Their hope lies in humbly pleading for mercy at the feet of the people, confessing their guilt, and promising permanent reformation. They cannot well go to the father, holding his good right hand the potent weapon of the ballot, and say "You must vote against this prohibition amendment; its passage would take from us all our property and leave us wrecked and ruined." If they do, let them expect this answer:

"You ask me to protect your property to save your dollars. Where is that which is dearer to me than all my property, all my dollars, than everything else I have on earth—almost than my hopes of Heaven—my son, my boy? You plead for dirty dollars stored up for the day when you may be my boy as he was, damn you, and then I may talk to you—but not before."

And if they beseech the mother for her vote, may they not expect her to reply: "You men helped, and protected, and shielded, if you did not own, a gilded Satan's den that lured my girl into its net and drove her to ruin and to shame. You met every cry for vengeance against that devil's den with a sneer, or an evasion, and each effort to clean it out, brought from your powerful influence with the authorities to give the den a renewed lease of vicious life. And now you beg me to vote for the protection of your property. You'll excuse me, but my vote will not go to save your property used to send young girls to hell. I will need it in November in an effort to save the best of all property—the girlhood of California."

The brewery, wine, and liquor interests can tax the distilleries, and the breweries, and the wineries until the butters run money instead of water. And every dollar the people find these forces spending out of a defense fund—even in the most legitimate way—will create votes for the prohibition amendment—unless these interests start in right now to take their protecting arms from the low saloon and the dirty dive; unless they refuse to sell to and law-breaking saloon, or any den involving young boys to hell and young girls to prostitution. If the brewery, wine, and liquor interests of California expect the voters to go their way next November, they must approach them with clean hands—clean hands which they intend to keep clean.

It does not believe in it, either as a principle or as a policy. It considers it unjust in its essence. As a matter of equity, a democratic and inherent right, the majority have no more right to authority to prevent the minority from drinking wine or with sobriety, in moderation, and without disorder—than they would have to order the same minority not to smoke cigars or to cut pork. But, if prohibition be unjust in its very kernel, it is less so when it is applied to the wine which has so strengthened it, the combination of wine and beer with boyish crime and girlish licentiousness.

If these hellish evils are not to be removed—if the dirty, the dead-end, the low saloon, the wedding of liquor and lust, are not to be cast out of the traffic—if it is still to continue a menace to our boys and a lure to our girls, then the State of California had better embrace prohibition as the least offending and offensive of two evils, the milder injustice of two injustices. And if the beer, wine and liquor interests should elect not to repent and reform, and still prohibition should not win this year—or, if promising to repent and reform, they should go back to their evil ways—the result would be the dead sea's fruit of a victory that would turn for ashes on the lips, for the battle would be renewed at the next general election, and prohibition then would sweep the State of California like a prairie fire.

In conclusion, let me say: "The battalions of prohibition" are neither mad nor blind. They are composed of men and women who believe that the millions worse than wasted, the millions used to debauch and degrade and destroy manhood and womanhood, are an instrument not only unprofitable to the State, but an investment, a partnership, which the State must repudiate if she protects the rights of her citizens, including the wives and the progeny of the liquor dealers. The prohibitionists believe that character is worth more than coin; that fathers' and mothers' hearts and hopes, that sober sons and daughters are not to be measured by the billions invested. The former are priceless to heart and home and state; the latter is an investment for the destruction of mankind by one of its greatest enemies.

The prohibitionists believe that the sons and daughters of this land are worthy of a better end than to furnish grist for the devilish mills of the saloon, the brothel, the dive, the dishonored and disgraceful death which awaits. Let your vote for prohibition help to destroy the monstrous evil.

The Cash System is Spreading

From all over the country comes the news that more and more of the merchants are limiting their business to a cash basis. This movement is timely. The inauguration of the parcel post system brings the city and village merchant into keener competition, and in order to compete with his city rival, the village merchant must reduce his trade, so far as possible, to a cash basis. Figure it any way you like, it is not possible for the merchant to sell on credit without greatly increasing the charge upon his customers, and especially upon his honest customers, who, under the old system, not only paid the cash price for their own goods, plus all the extra charges that the merchant had to impose upon them for their credit, but they also made good for all the bad accounts as well. It must be so in the credit store unless the merchant himself is to go bankrupt.

From the standpoint of the farmer's business also, the change to the credit system is just now especially timely in many parts of the country. Credit may have a reasonable place in the economy of the pioneer, but after the farm affairs have got down to smooth running on a level basis, there is really no excuse for a constantly unpaid store bill. Such an adjustment of the farmer's business means that instead of being bedeviled with his store accounts, paying them out of the revenue already obtained, he is discounting his next year's crop for this year's expenses and asking the merchant to become his banker in the meantime. The generally probable nature of dairy farming and live stock raising, with the consequent practicability nowadays of obtaining cash all the year round, opens up to the farmer a much greater chance of a steady income than under the system of one crop only, and this steadiness of income means a corresponding steadiness of spending money to cover current expenses. In the evolution of the country's business, one of the most happy facts, from the farmer's standpoint—although he does not always enjoy the immediate process of changing—is the general discontinuance of store credit in favor of cash business.

Premier Borden Explains His C.N.R. Aid Resolution

In the house on Wednesday, in the debate on the proposed government assistance to the C.N.R., Premier Borden, in presenting the resolution, made the following explanatory remarks:

Premier Borden was received with loud cheers by his supporters when he rose to explain the C.N.R. resolution. As a preliminary he tabled a map of the C.N.R. as it is at present, and as it will be when the line is completed. Plunging at once into his subject, he said that the system saw its first beginning in 1896, when Mackenzie and Mann built 100 miles of railway in the western part of Manitoba. This project originated in 1899 with the Lake Manitoba Railway and Canal Company, whose charter was taken over by Mackenzie and Mann.

Since 1896 Mackenzie and Mann have secured other charters, and have constructed many lines, including roads in all provinces with the exception of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The system now consists of 1,542 miles of completed road, 1,542 miles of graded road, on which the tracks have not been laid, 850 miles of grade under way and 230 miles of grade under contract, or a total of nearly ten thousand miles.

Mr. Borden said that the status of the Canadian Northern and transcontinental line was first recognized in the session of 1903-4. It was further established by the preamble of the bill, passed in 1911, giving a guarantee on the Montreal-Park Arthur section of $35,000 per mile.

The aid which the Canadian Northern system had received from the Dominion and Provincial governments and from municipalities, Mr. Borden said, had been set forth in a document presented to the house. The system had received aid in the form of land, and subsidies from all sources to the extent of $311,276,822, of which the Dominion government had guaranteed $58,042,248, and the various provinces $76,850,203. In addition, apart from government aid, Mackenzie and Mann had raised approximately $176,000,000, which was not guaranteed by any government.

The most preferable part of the system, Mr. Borden went on to say, was that between Fort William and Edmonton. It was a profitable one, however, than it will be when the line is extended to the Pacific Coast on the west, and is connected with the railway systems of the east, more particularly the I.C.R.

Mr. Borden explained that the C.N.R. company property includes various subsidiary companies, many of which are guaranteed by the parent company. Thus, the western lines are vitally interested in the completion, extension and success of the whole system.

The government, he said, was convinced that the system could not be completed without further assistance. Among the reasons furnished by the company for its inability to go ahead on its own account was the financial stringency in Canada as well as in the money markets of the world. The difficulties in the way of making a further flotation were such that it could not be attempted without risk of absolute failure. The company was also confronted with the fact that there had been an increase in the current indebtedness of from three to nearly eleven million dollars, and that it had raised almost ten and a half million to meet outstanding indebtedness.

Mr. Borden next submitted the statement showing that $100,370,000 is still required to complete the road, against which the company possesses by way of securities and subsidies $59,473,082, leaving an amount of $41,000,000, actually required in order to finish the road and provide betterments absolutely required in the near future.

Mr. Borden said that the question had been asked why it was necessary to provide aid at the present time when the company is still in the possession of subsidies and other securities to the value of over $58,000,000. The reason was, he said, that subsidies can only be paid out as they are earned. The proceeds of both subsidies and securities are not available at once, and are only paid out in instalments. As a matter of fact, final payments would not be realized until the completion of the system. These facts have been taken into consideration as well as also as the question of the higher cost of the railway, which is due partially to the adoption of a higher standard of construction than was anticipated.

In deciding to grant further aid, the government had also taken into consideration the fact that nearly one hundred and eighty million dollars had been invested in the road by people who knew it had been recognized as a transcontinental system, and that it had received generous support both from the Federal and Provincial governments.

At this point, he quoted with approval an article from the Montreal Daily Journal of Commerce, edited by Hon. W. S. Fielding. The article pointed out that both the Dominion and Provincial governments had given aid to the C.N.R. with a lavish hand, and that the country should not allow the C.N.R. to fail in its finances, because this would be a national calamity. The article went on to say that the only question is the form and extent of aid given, and the amount of protection secured.

Many suggestions had been made as to what form the aid should take, the prime minister proceeded to remark. The government had assumed in the beginning that the system could not be allowed to remain uncompleted. In view of the aid granted by the Dominion and Provincial governments, to leave the C.N.R. two thousand miles of unfinished line was a proposition which no honorable gentleman on either side of the house could support or sanction. (Applause.)

The suggestion had been made that the road should be allowed to go into liquidation in order that the amounts of unguaranteed securities might be cut down. This suggestion, Mr. Borden said, had never appeared to him. In view of the necessity of going to London for financial aid at the present time, and in the future the saving of thirty or forty millions at the present time by the adoption of this suggestion would have resulted in ten times that loss to Canada in the future.

Failure to provide for the completion of this system at the present time would retard the growth of the Dominion for at least a generation. Besides this, if the system were allowed to go into liquidation, it could not be completed except by some such measure as that proposed. It was believed, therefore, that with proper stipulations and safeguards it was not only necessary but desirable that the government should give such assistance as would lead to the completion of the Mackenzie and Mann system.

One argument advanced against the granting of aid, Mr. Borden said, was the contention of Mackenzie and Mann with the enterprises. It had been asserted in the press and noised about in the corridors of the house that large sums of money received by the C.N.R. for the purpose of this enterprise had been diverted to other uses. Had such a condition been found to exist, it certainly would have called for drastic action. It had also been alleged that Mackenzie and Mann, as contractors, had made large profits out of the enterprise, and that large sums had been impropiously spent or wasted.

The government had fully inquired into these allegations and had come to the conclusion that not one dollar had been diverted by Mackenzie and Mann to any project but the construction of this road. Inquiry had also been made as to whether the money had been properly handled. When the amount spent was contrasted with the results achieved by other companies in Canada and elsewhere, the only conclusion which could be reached was that the money had been properly and wisely expended.

Mr. Borden then stated that the report of the auditors to show that the only remuneration Mackenzie and Mann had received was the allocation to them of common stock in the company. He said that but for the provisions made in this agreement, Sir William and Sir Donald would have a claim for services rendered of fifteen, twenty or twenty-five million dollars. The house should also realize that these two gentlemen had given eighteen years of their lives to this enterprise. It would be admitted that it had prosecuted the work with ability and energy.

Mr. Borden next placed on the record a declaration signed by the controller of the company, A. J. Mitchell, of Toronto, to show that no cost, profits or percentages, save and except common stock, had been paid to Mackenzie and Mann, although the total expenditure of the company had been $228,406,614.

It had also been asserted, Mr. Borden said, that Mackenzie and Mann had made money out of the construction company known as the Northern Construction Company. He submitted a declaration furnished by the company of Vancouver, A. Mackenzie and C. Cummings, Winnipeg, president, vice-president and secretary of the Northern Construction Company, respectively, to establish that Mackenzie and Mann had made no profits out of the operations of this company.

The question was a national one, said Mr. Borden, and went beyond the interests of any individual, but it had been represented to the government that Mackenzie and Mann had put into the enterprise large assets which they might have retained for themselves in the early days. They had acquired charters in the early days which carried with them extensive land grants. The charters of these roads had gone begging until Mackenzie and Mann took them up, built the railways and earned the land grants. These, while of little value at the time, later acquired considerable value, and of these lands totalling 4,000,000 acres, they had not retained any except 100,000 acres, but all else had been placed in the C.N.R. and had already added about $17,000,000 to its assets, while what was left would provide at current prices about $12,000,000 more.

While the original aim of Mackenzie and Mann was merely to build railways, the course they had taken indicated that long ago they had arrived at the conclusion that their larger purpose must be to build a transcontinental line in Canada. Prior to the inauguration of the Grand Trunk Pacific project, the C.N.R. lines in Western Canada had expected to make traffic arrangements with the Grand Trunk, but when the Grand Trunk itself set out to be a transcontinental C.N.R. line in the west had to build in to the east or be isolated.

Dealing with the question of future earnings, Mr. Borden pointed out that at present the C.N.R. earnings were as great as those of the C.P.R. in 1901 and that with the growth of the country that was to be expected, they would likewise increase. The line was built of a high character and there would be low operating charges. The great consideration was that the completion of the line was needed by the country and to delay its completion would be to retard the progress of Canada. Liquidation would involve heavy charges on the Dominion government and on the provinces. Large amounts were owed to contractors, but reasonable confidence would lead to the conclusion that the enterprise could be carried to success.

The adequate government had been made with regard to the payment of contractors, etc., had been suggested. The premier quoted from the resolutions to show that the disposition of the money raised by the securities was to be such as the government-in-council approved. The government would see that contractors and others who had made advances were adequately protected.

Mr. Borden pointed out that under the agreement it was required that all the lines amalgamated should be constituted under one management and the stock of all these companies, amounting to about $145,000,000, had been reduced to $100,000,000. There would be no further issue by the allied companies allowed. The issue of $45,000,000 of securities to be guaranteed by the government was secured by a mortgage on the C.N.R. comprising its 5,500 miles between Fort Arthur and the coast, a mortgage on the properties and assets of the allied companies, by a charge on stocks and securities enumerated in the agreement and by a charge upon the equity of redemption of Mackenzie and Mann's interest in townships, finished.

It was further provided that Mackenzie and Mann were themselves to look after the loans outstanding and that none of the money raised by the sale of $45,000,000 of guaranteed securities was to be used in paying off temporary loans. The expenditures made would be under the supervision of the government, as would those of all allied companies. There would be a direct appointment by the government on each company and all would be made subject to the railway board.

Mr. Borden said that as the liability incurred by the Canadian government was a substantial one, the Canadian people should participate in any profits of the enterprise. In fixing the capital at $100,000,000, it was stipulated that $40,000,000 of this should become the absolute property of the people of Canada, and he did not think that any one would say that the people of Canada were not entitled to this. The holdings of Mackenzie and Mann had been decreased from $138,000,000 to $40,000,000, and the government had been increased from $7,000,000 to $40,000,000. The premier read the letters which had been received from several of the provincial premiers urging action, and he again emphasized that it would be most undesirable for the railway to go into liquidation. But vigorous action might be necessary in case default was made by the railway in payment of any of its securities, and full provision had been made in the case of such default. In such a case their offices might be declared vacant and the government might name a new board with extraordinary powers, including the creating of additional securities and the transfer of the Canadian Northern Railway to a board created by parliament. It might also declare the interests of Mackenzie and Mann as barred and foreclosed, and all should then rest in the Crown the right of the people of Canada. Therefore, if the road could not be brought to success with the aid now granted, the government and parliament had the matter fully in hand.

Special features of the agreement were:

1. The release of all claims of contractors for profits, commissions or otherwise against the C.N.R. by Mackenzie and Mann.
2. The stipulation that freight originating on the C.N.R. should be carried over Canadian lines, and if destined for export should go to Canadian ports.
3. Provision for an interchange of traffic between the C.N.R. and the Intercolonial.

Mr. Borden then proceeded to review the financial condition of the C.N.R., and quoted extensively from the returns which have been tabled in the house during the last week. He said that the government was firm in the belief that the public had been well protected, but would be glad to consider any additional suggestions to that end. Lack of courage in dealing with the question would be a national disgrace, he said, and every dollar raised would be used to further the completion of the road. Expectations of success were disappointed, then there was a summary method for the re-organization of the road and for handing it over to another corporation created for that purpose by the government, or by taking over the road by the people of Canada themselves.

The premier said that the concessions which the government had secured more than repaid the country for every assistance and aid they had given to the railway. If similar compensation had been secured from the C.P.R. when they required aid the country would have reaped the benefit today. In addition, he concluded, by securing the construction of a great transcontinental railway.

EXPENSE AND INCOME.

The story that high cost of living goes hand in hand with high wages, and that liberal spending makes good times, is a pretty theory, but it doesn't fool the housewife for a minute.

It may fool the men for the moment, but it can't fool the men's wives, for they who keep the house know more about living more about having and more about the narrow margin between want and plenty in the household than does the secretary of the treasury.

A woman is wise enough to see that while the increased cost of living is palpable and genuine, the increase of income exists only in the promise—is like the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

What the woman feels instinctively is well supported by reason. Increase of price does not mean increase of business; it means less business. It brings no more wealth into existence; it results in less production. It brings no more money into circulation; it drives it out of circulation.

If anybody is to be better off as the result of mere increase in prices, it is at the expense of somebody else. All who have for sale commodities the prices of which they can fix themselves, may hold their carnival over charging one another and imagining they are getting rich by the bootstrapping process. But the millions who have for sale the commodity upon which they themselves cannot fix the price, labor, get the worst of it all round.

So high prices do not insure either brisk business or good wages. Even in most of the great trusts, there is a contraction of expenditure.

The cost of the soup, of the meat, of the bread, of the coal, of the shoes for the children, of the blankets, of the clothing for the family, counts in the domestic economy, particularly when it comes out of a man's brow and blood.

A time when living expenses shall again be cheap is the prayer of millions of mothers of families in this land.

Lacombe Teams Won Football and Baseball

BASEBALL

On Thursday last the Lacombe Advertiser's baseball team went to Ponoka and defeated that aggregation by a score of 4 to 1 in a seven-inning game. There was a fair attendance, and they got their money's worth. It was a good exhibition of ball, and although Ponoka lost, they nevertheless put up a strong game, and some nice fielding was witnessed. Ponoka scored their only run on a long drive to right field which, owing to the high wind, was misjudged by Lacombe's fielder. After that, although they had Lacombe in a couple of holes, they did not succeed in crossing the plate. If good rooting was of any help to them, they should have won, as they certainly have some good "fans" to help them out.

Lacombe played faultless ball all through and only one safe hit was made off "Chief" Miller. All of the fielders played a star game. C. Daner, on third, pulling down a line drive that would have been disastrous had he missed it, but the never-failing "Chief" is always to be depended on. Fleming, Metzger and "Stub" Daner also cleaned up everything that came their way, while Hill and Scott lost only one between them in the outfield. The new uniforms were greatly praised by the spectators, and several remarked on the unique way of advertising the town. "Chief" Miller, with the Pioneer Meat Market ad on his shirt, came in for several jests from some of the spectators, but the more they tried to rattle him the harder he pitched ball, and not once during the game did he let up, and was stronger at the finish than at the start. It would be hard for the boys to remember all their new nicknames, but the advertisers certainly will be well known in this district this summer.

The umpire gave entire satisfaction, not one objection being made to any of his decisions. It is hoped several games between these teams will be played during the season.

TUESDAY'S GAME

Ponoka played a return game here last night, but were unable to regain their lost laurels. The game stood 8 to 2 in favor of Lacombe in the fifth, but by some very loose playing on the part of the locals, Ponoka scored 5 in the sixth, but after that they failed to score. The locals scored 2 in the seventh and 2 in the eighth. Score at finish, 12 to 7 in favor of the locals. Neither team played as good ball as in the previous one, but the locals had their batting clothes on and had no mercy on the three pitchers tried out by the visitors. Metzger pitched for the locals and had the visitors at his mercy. The Ponoka boys are confident they will give us a trimming next time we meet, but time will tell. Merriall made the hit of the game, and by some speedy footwork, cleared the four sacks. "Chief" Miller handled the indicator.

The attendance was very good, considering the weather, and good crowds give the boys great encouragement. However, there are a few who never miss a game, but when the "HAT" is passed, they lose their sight immediately. Of course no one is compelled to pay, but you know it costs money to even run a local ball team.

FOOTBALL

Lacombe football club played a friendly match with Bentley last Thursday evening on the home ground, just below the baseball diamond. Bentley, on winning the toss, chose to play with the wind in their favor. The game during the first half was very fast and exciting. Lacombe opened the score first, and this put Bentley on their mettle, who very quickly responded by making the score level. Lacombe again came to the front and put on another goal, which Bentley also followed up by again making the score level, but before the change of ends Lacombe added a third, the half time arriving with the score three goals to two in favor of Lacombe.

After the change of ends the home boys had it much their own way, and put on four more goals, one of these being a penalty kick, which was taken by Richardson and beautifully scored, thus helping him to do the hat trick, the result of the game being a win for Lacombe by seven goals to two.

The game was very cleanly and sportingly contested, the players all working their hardest, and no special praise is due to anyone, but to all. The game was ably refereed by Mr. McWilliam.

There were quite a number of football enthusiasts of both sexes, who by their cheering, etc., seemed to greatly appreciate the game.

Lacombe played a return game with Bentley last night, and again defeated their western neighbors by a score of 2 to 0. The game was fast, and Bentley put up a much stronger game than when they played here.

Rimby News

W. Mackevoy sold his farm of 160 acres last week to Mr. Hollowell, of Iowa, for the consideration of $4,000, and has bought the Geo. Richardson farm, where he will hereafter reside. They are now busy remodeling the house, with Geo. Curry in charge of the work.

Peter Becker has returned from Wisconsin, where he has spent the past six months, and is now living on his farm east of Rimby.

A. Rudolph has returned from the States, where he has been for the past year. He is now in the employ of the telephone company, and has given up better rates for the long distance. Edmonton day rates are now 45c, and after seven in the evening a rate of 25c is given. Calgary rates are 70c and 35c. Camrose, 40c, and 25c. All the other points, except Lacombe, which remains the same, have been cut accordingly.

Metzger pitched for the locals and had the visitors at his mercy. The Ponoka boys are confident they will give us a trimming next time we meet, but time will tell. Merriall made the hit of the game, and by some speedy footwork, cleared the four sacks. "Chief" Miller handled the indicator.

The attendance was very good, considering the weather, and good crowds give the boys great encouragement. However, there are a few who never miss a game, but when the "HAT" is passed, they lose their sight immediately. Of course no one is compelled to pay, but you know it costs money to even run a local ball team.

This is an accommodation which no other central is giving to its patrons, and in order that each line may be accommodated, it is connected with all, so that every time a call is made on any of the lines at night it disturbs Frank's slumbers, and as an accommodation deserves another, it is no more than right that we all, so as to be able to do our visiting before 9 o'clock in the evening, for if there is any misuse of this accommodation, it will be removed.

Mr. Hayden has erected a commodious house and barn on his farm northeast of Rimby. They will be moving into same in a few days. Mr. Curry did the carpentry work.

Casper Uhl is erecting a large barn on his farm southeast of Rimby. When this is completed, Casper will have as fine a set of buildings as anyone could wish for. By the way the Rimby community is second to none in Alberta for nice farms and farm buildings. If any are in doubt, take a trip out and be convinced.

The Junior League gave their entertainment last Tuesday evening to a well-filled and appreciative house. The entertainment was of a missionary character, and the proceeds, which amounted to $19.50, will be used for missionary purposes. The children acquitted themselves splendidly, and much credit is due to Mrs. Brooks, Miss Malcolm and Rev. Irwin for their untiring efforts in training the children.

John Saunders is busy painting the farm buildings of T. A. Idings. After completing these he has the contract for painting several of the new buildings now being erected.

K. Wates left for Edmonton on Monday.

ACADEMY NOTES

Too busy this week to get our copy ready.

Miss Essie Barker recently spent several days at nursing in the home of Mr. Sharpe. Miss Mabel Campbell, who has recovered from her attack of typhoid, is nursing at Rocky Mountain House.

The girls are doing the janitor work in Assembly Hall, and their thoroughness is much appreciated.

Miss Mary Knutson left last week to join Pastor Wilson in Bible work in Red Deer.

Rapid improvements are being made in the Academy lawn. The trees set out last fall have done well and the flowers and grass soon to be sown will add much to the beauty of our hill.

John Smith has returned to his home at Coronation, in answer to the call of his parents to assist with the farm work.

We made mention recently concerning the new coat purchased for the school. But through an oversight the microscopes was omitted.

J. K. Fish has been a series of meetings at the Eclipse school house near Clive. Those having in the neighborhood are cordially invited to attend Sunday afternoons at three o'clock.

Some of the boys are busy these days, halter breaking the colts recently purchased by the school. F. H. Fish has done considerable improvement in the school, and has broken an ox team for use about the premises.

Final examinations have been given to the English literature and night singing classes this week.

The music students and the public speaking class will give a recital in the Academy Chapel Monday evening, May 25, at eight o'clock. Visitors are cordially invited.

Rainy Creek News

Last week, E. E. Aeschlimann began excavating for the cellar of the new house he expects to build on his farm this summer.

J. C. Carritt was on the sick list the latter part of last week. Miss Annie Thompson was in Lacombe Saturday having dental work done.

Bills are out announcing a sale of live stock, etc., of Clarence Stanley on June 1. We are sorry to note that Mr. and Mrs. Stanley intend leaving soon after for Montana, where they expect to reside.

The Ladies' Aid of the Rainy Creek church had one of their pleasant monthly meetings at the home of Mrs. Clarence Stanley Wednesday last week. The next meeting will be held at the church on Wednesday, June 10. Dinner will be served, with Mrs. J. B. Dane and Mrs. J. H. Stone as hostesses. All are cordially invited.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets. Darius Dowey, of Newburg Junction, N.B., writes: "My wife has been using Chamberlain's Tablets for the last few weeks, and doing her lots of good. If you have any trouble with your stomach or bowels give them a trial. For sale by City Pharmacy."

BURGLARS GET $12,000 IN PENTICTON, B.C.

Penticton, B. C., May 14.—Under cover of a heavy rainstorm which swept the city during the early hours of this morning, burglars forced an entrance into the post office, blew the safe and effected an escape, and getting nearly $6,000 worth of blank post office receipts and registered packages worth $800. They also took a registered package consigned to the branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which contained $5,000, mostly in bills of ten-dollar denomination.

Previous to the post office robbery, a sale at the Penticton Steam Laundry was blown, but in this case only a few dollars were secured. The burglars were discovered at 2 o'clock, owing to the fact two distinct explosions awakened several residents from slumber about 1:30 p.m. Nitro glycerine was apparently the explosive used in both robberies, which were presumably committed by the same gang.

In the case of the post office, the entrance was totally wrecked. The front of the safe was blown to atoms, quantities of small silver scattered in all directions, and left by the burglars in their haste to make a getaway.

The fact that a registered package to the Canadian Bank of Commerce was in the haul appears to the authorities to bear more than a coincidence, as these are received here only about once a month, and remain in the post office one night only.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO ABOLISH TIPPING PRACTICE

Ottawa, May 13.—The senate today gave consideration of the bill to abolish tipping. Senator Davis said he thought there should be a distinction between the penalties applied against employer and employees. He would not like to see a boy or girl who took remuneration for helping a rich person in the hotel fined twenty dollars or thirty dollars a term in jail. If employers were under penalty they would see their employees took no tips.

It was pointed out that the fine was in the discretion of the court. This would make the penalties to suit each case. The bill only said that no fine should be more than $100. The waters were in favor of the bill. In Vancouver and Montreal they had formerly expressed a general approval of the bill.

Senator Brien doubted that parliament would add to its dignity by enacting such legislation. He thought the law could not be enforced. He proposed restricting the bill to the public, and he asked if the bill would extend to church collections or increases in parliamentary indemnity.

On motion of Senator Davis, the bill was amended by declaring it should not apply to servants in private residences. With amendments the bill was approved and reported, and set down for third reading tomorrow.

Long back is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the back, for which you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Rubefacient. For sale by City Pharmacy.

WOOL GROWERS ORGANIZE

The wool growers of the Lacombe district met and organized under the name of "The Lacombe District Wool Growers Association," and elected the following officers on Tuesday last:

President, A. W. Sharp; Vice-President, F. H. Duckett; Secretary-Treasurer, Geo. Hutten.

The directors will be elected at a later meeting.

The meeting was addressed by Geo. T. Willingham, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, who explained in a thorough manner the objects of such an association, and the benefit it would be to sheep raisers.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture is doing a good work in the direction of assisting sheep raisers, and have a staff of competent men in the country instructing the farmers as to the best methods of wool growing.

The department is also arranging for wool-graders to visit various points in the province and grade the season's clip, and value same for the producers, and will keep the associations in touch with the market prices, domestic and foreign, twice weekly. This is being done without cost to the farmer.

It is hoped that this will serve as a factor in developing and improving the general status of sheep raising and in creating an impetus to the production and preparation of an improved grade of wool, and indirectly, a better class of mutton.

A meeting of the newly-formed association will be held at the Experimental Farm on Wednesday next, 27th, in the afternoon, and a cordial invitation is extended to all farmers to attend.

Things in General

The death of the Duke of Argyle at a ripe old age recalls not merely memories of his sojourn in Canada a generation ago, but of his father, the former duke, one of the most masterful personalities of his time, a scientist and philosopher of no mean repute, an undoubted controversialist and a great protagonist of the orthodox, the former Duke of Argyle, although a lifelong friend of Charles Darwin, was nevertheless one of that distinguished scientist's most vigorous opponents. He could not swallow Darwin's evolutionary doctrines, and in book and pamphlet he hammered away at these, refusing to the last to acknowledge defeat.

Like the sons of so many fathers distinguished by the vigor of their intellectual force, the late Duke of Argyle lacked the pugnacity of his sire. He was more of the dilettante than the scientific philosopher, dabbling in verse and the lighter side of literature instead of dealing with the problems with which his father wrestled all his life. In the early eighties, like so many other English public men, the new idea of Empire took hold of the Duke of Argyle. This movement was very largely the result of Professor Seeley's teaching, as originally set forth in his book, "The Expansion of England." Imperialism in the true sense of the term may be said to have begun with Professor Seeley's book, and the overseas Dominions came into their own as integral parts of the British Empire instead of being burdens which had to be borne until the young functions could stand alone.

The Duke of Argyle, as the result of his adhesion to the new idea of Empire secured not merely by the Seeley propaganda but by his own practical experience as Governor-General of Canada, wrote a volume, "Imperial Federation," which was published in 1885. The "Imperial Federation League," an organization of ardent Empire lovers, passed out of existence without having achieved anything of a practical or constructive nature, but it helped to nourish and strengthen a sentiment which is bearing fruit even now.

The late Duke of Argyle in 1871 married Princess Louise, one of the daughters of Queen Victoria. In 1878 the Duke was appointed Governor-General of Canada, an office which he held with credit to himself, his tact and amiability being specially characteristic of his important position. His well-known devotion to literary pursuits resulted in the foundation of the Royal Society of Canada. After his departure from Canada the Duke, then, of course, Marquis of Lorne—re-entered the Imperial Parliament, where he sat until his successive peerage. After that took place, he discharged his duties in the country quietly and unostentatiously, taking part in public functions from time to time, but never ceasing in his literary work. As one of a rapidly increasing body of English public men who have served in the overseas Dominions, the late Duke of Argyle quietly, but none the less effectively, helped to mould public opinion in the direction of the real meaning of the British Empire and its true position in the world. The Duke of Argyle was always a worker, and in no sense could it have been said that he was one who did not "talk or spin." A gentle and amiable personality, conscientious and straightforward in the discharge of the work which came to his hand, the Duke of Argyle has passed to his rest a genuine Scottish gentleman.

Lord Archibald Campbell, brother to the Duke, who has succeeded to the title, in his early years displayed a good deal of pugnacity of his father. Tired of the aimless existence of a peer's younger son, the new Duke went into business at a time when a nobleman who worked for his living was less common than now and for quite a while he has been engaged in banking in London. The new Duke of Argyle is an energetic advocate of the old-fashioned Highland garb, and as the chief of the Clan Campbell he will more than likely continue to indulge in this enthusiasm of his, enforcing it both by precept and example.

The announcement that Prince Alexander of Teck is to be the next Governor-General of Canada will be well received by all classes of people in the Dominion. On many occasions the name of the Prince has been connected with the position, and now rumor has been converted into a certainty. Whether the Canadian royalty is to be always held by a scion of royalty in future remains to be seen, but indications seem to point that way.

And so long as the occurrence of the vice-regal chair is of the type of the Duke of Connaught—and, from all we can learn, of Prince Alexander of Teck—also—he will be very welcome in Canada. It is not also necessary, of course, that His Majesty's representative in Canada should be a member of the royal family, but when to royal birth are added the best of qualities in men and women, Canada and Canadians will be well content to have the combination.

Prince Alexander of Teck will come to the Dominion with an excellent reputation. A brave soldier he has won distinction on more than one occasion on the field of battle. He is besides a capable man of affairs, and possesses a vein of shrewd common sense as well as the tact and accessibility so characteristic of the British Royal Family today.

Prince Alexander is a democratic prince, and his engaging manner, along with the winning presence of his amiable and accomplished consort—who prior to her marriage was Princess Alice of Albany—will soon win the favor of the Canadian people. While sorry to think of the departure of the Duke of Connaught—whose stay in Canada will be so long and favorably remembered—we feel sure that Prince Alexander of Teck will be an excellent successor.

EXPENSE VS. SAVINGS.

Here and there one finds a dairymaid who hesitates about taking up cow testing because of the initial expense of about three dollars for the necessary outfit of scales and bottles.

This would seem to be an extreme case of "penny wise and pound foolish." So many examples are constantly cropping up of distinct saving through the small expenditure that they should be noted for the encouragement of those who still hesitate.

Cows have been bought at auction time after time, discarded by owners who were evidently also entirely ignorant of their high value as good producers. After one or two months' test the new owners have often refused $50 and $100 on their bargains. That is a pretty quick return on the cow testing outfit expenditure. In fact, among such discards, at auction were picked up one or two world's champions worth thousands of dollars.

This vital fact should not be overlooked. Hundreds of poor cows are being kept today at huge expense, whose low value the owners are also probably ignorant. Yet a three dollar outfit would help discover them, soon turning the present loss into distinct savings.

Then, thanks to that small expense, many dairymen are making an additional income of three hundred dollars from 20 cows, because the poorest have been discarded. It will abundantly pay every dairymen to keep dairy records.

held on Saturday night last at the home of the President, J. I.
Frizzell. It was a "social" evening, and a most interesting program of music, both vocal and instrumental, had been prepared, and was greatly enjoyed by all.A dainty supper was provided for the members by Mrs. Frizzell.
The U.F.A. is flourishing in this district. The next meeting will to have a banner season. The crop in this season is double that of last, and it will all be in good time. Watch Lochinvar grow.Naughty Teacher Draws Three YearsIt will be remembered that The Western Globe warned school districts a few weeks ago to be on the lookout for a Frenchman named De Gallant, who taught school at Lochinvar for some months.

An eye has evidently been kept on him, as will be seen from the following dispatch from Weyburn:Weyburn, May 17.—Three years' hard labor with twenty lashes was the sentence handed down by Judge Wood yesterday in the case of Augustine de Gallant, a former school teacher of the Talmage district, on a combined indictment of three charges of a serious nature.It took the trustees at Lochin-var a little while to get next to Mrs. De Gallant, and when they did the young man skipped out.
He was a very clever young man, and was said by himself to be very wealthy. By the way, he wrote poems, which appeared at intervals in The Western Globe.
They were well written, too, and we have since come across some of them in other periodicals and have our doubts about our pencitor's qualifications along that line.After leaving here he took to preaching, and held services atWeyburn and other towns. His arrest was due to information furnished by Mr. A. Archibald, of Lochinvar. If what we have learned of his actions is true, he has got off very lightly.CHANGE IN RAILWAY TIME TABLE ON EAST LINE.The citizens of Lacombe, together with the citizens of every town on the Lacombe-Moosejaw branch as far east as Coronation, are up in arms against the proposed changing of the running time of the train on this branch.
At present the passenger train leaves the end of the line early in the morning, reaching Lacombe about eleven o'clock, and returning leaves Lacombe at oneo'clock. When the proposed change takes effect, the train from the east will reach Lacombe at five o'clock in the afternoon, and leave for the east about seven o'clock the same evening. This change will be most inconvenient for the residents along the east line, and a protest against the change should be made at once.The only reason given by the railway officials is that the C.P.
R. is anxious to accommodate a few passengers from Calgary to Edmonton, and with a fast train daily will cut off all the intermediate traffic possible on the present morning train from Edmonton and the noon train from Calgary. By accommodating a very few travelers the railway will work a great hardship onthousands of settlers along the line east of Lacombe.FUNERAL OF LATE HON. F. D. MONK LARGELY AT-TENDED.Montreal, May 18.—The funeral of the late Hon. F. D. Monk, former minister of public works, held today in his native city Montreal, was attended by hundreds of prominent people, including six members of Premier Borden's cabinet—Messrs. Rogers, Hazen, Doherty, Coderre, Nante
and Pelletier; Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Sir Lomer Gouin and others. The burial took place at Cote Des Neigs cemetery.It is wonderful what a little money spent in paint, and a little time in applying it, will do in the way of improvement around your home.Worn floors can be made to look bright and fresh—dingy furniture made as good as new—cupboards and shelves made clean and sanitary—dull woodwork and doors,

Here are the special Sherwin-Williams products that will do all this for you at
